I love the dresses & backgrounds in some of these pictures!

The back reads:

"Grandfather Huber"

"Jess's mother's ^{father} ~~wife~~ died when he was 40."

"72 years of age
when he died."

"Traveled in many states of union."

HAPPY ANCESTOR HUNTING

"The First Families of Allen County, Ohio was begun by the Allen County Chapter of the Ohio Genealogical Society and the Allen County Historical Society in 1975 as a bicentennial project.

It's basic mission is to collect and preserve historical and genealogical data regarding the citizens that lived in Allen County prior to 1840 (within the 1975 county boundaries), and their descendants.

Anyone, regardless of where they were born or now live, who can prove they are lineal descendants of an ancestor that resided in Allen County, Ohio prior to 1840 are encouraged to apply for membership. The members files are maintained by the Allen County Chapter of the Ohio Genealogical Society, contain the approved application form and also copies of the "proofs"; and are open for inspection and research purposes.

Membership applications can be obtained from the Allen County Chapter, Ohio Genealogical Society, 620 West Market Street, Lima, Ohio 45801. (see pages 4 and 5 for example of application form) A small fee is charged at the time the completed membership application is submitted.

Upon approval for membership an appropriate certificate will be presented during an annual recognition ceremony (usually held the last Sunday in July). (see page 6 for example) Members living great distances from Allen County, Ohio may have their certificates mailed to them.

This index is designed to make it easier for prospective members to "find" their Allen County ancestors; and also assist genealogical researchers. All names appearing on the approved forms have been indexed; therefore you may be able to find your parents, grandparents or greatgrandparents in this index -- and by checking the appropriate file immediately find their ancestors dating back to the early 1800s or late 1700s. The earliest recorded birthdate is 1740.

Special consideration has been made to include maiden names, birth and death year dates, to enhance speedier research. Females are listed by their maiden surname as well as their married surname.

Examples:

ALTHAUS, Gotthard 1836-1914	:6,15,81,82,83,113,114,115,433,456,457,ect.

LIFELONG N. C. RESIDENT DIES

Wawaka, June 28.—Mrs. Sarah E. Franks, aged 70 years, wife of Thomas Franks, died last night at her home here from paralysis. She had been an invalid the past three years and for several weeks her condition had been gradually failing.

Mrs. Franks was born in Noble county and had always resided in the county, making her home the greater part of the time in the Wawaka community.

Surviving besides the husband are two daughters, Mrs. Leona Crite of Goshen, and Mrs. Sarah Piggott, Wawaka. Nine step-children also survive.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon, 2 o'clock, from the Wawaka Methodist Episcopal church with the Rev. Andrew Yant of Topeka, officiating. Burial, Oak Park cemetery, Ligonier.

Franks, Sarah E.

and at one time had an extensive practice, having had as many as 100 calls in one day, many of whom he was compelled to turn away. He has never been a rigid collector, was always liberal to the poor, and though he has been very successful, is not wealthy. He is owner of 200 acres of valuable land. Dr. Honnell was married in 1855, to Amelia C., daughter of Rev. Ezra W. and M. S. (Stiles) Clark, former a Baptist minister, of English and German descent. Their children are Stella, wife of Henry S. Shull; Carrie V., wife of H. C. Hobart, of Cleveland, Ohio; Annie, wife of J. Marshall; Jessie, at home; Eugene Guy, eight years old, the only son, also at home with his parents. The doctor is a Presbyterian of the Calvinistic type. His wife is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In politics he is a prohibitionist of the ultra stamp, always claiming that alcohol, in all of its forms, is more sedative than stimulant, and the use of it is not necessary in the treatment of disease.

LEWIS W. HUBER, farmer and stock-raiser, P. O. Bluffton, was born in Allen County, Ohio, October 29, 1848, son of William and Sally Ann (Cunningham) Huber. William Huber was born in Batavia, Germany, in 1818, second of the five children (all boys) of Jacob Huber, a blacksmith, who married Barbara Maier, and came from Germany to Pennsylvania in 1832, and after working at his trade there for two years came to Bluffton, Ohio, where he spent the remainder of his life. Our subject's father is a very wealthy farmer, and has lived in this county since 1835; his wife was a native of Virginia; they reared a respectable family, of whom Lewis W. is the eldest. Our subject was reared on a farm, and received a common school education. He has made agriculture the principal occupation of his life, and now owns a well-improved farm of seventy-five acres in Richland Township. Mr. Huber was married in 1873 to Matilda Girod, whose parents were natives of France. To this union was born four children, three now living: Maud, John and Orville. Mr. and Mrs. Huber are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In politics he is a Democrat.

LEWIS JENNINGS, miller, Beaver Dam, was born in Tuscarawas County, Ohio, January 20, 1828, son of James and Elizabeth (William) Jennings, natives of Pennsylvania, and of Welsh and English descent, the former of whom was a pioneer farmer of this county, having moved here with his family over forty-eight years ago. Lewis was the eldest son of eight children, and had only a few weeks' schooling, as there were no schools in Richland Township for ten years after the family settled here, but he studied at night, after working hard all day, fitting himself to be a teacher, and taught school for several winters in this county. He was married in 1852, to Ann McKee, who bore him the following children: Hiram (deceased), James B., Anna, John M. This wife died in 1860, and our subject then married, in 1861, Mary A. Everett, a native of this county, and of English descent. The children born to this union are Francis M., B. F., Alfred, Clara, George, Kittie May and Jasper W. W. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which he has served as trustee and steward. He is a Republican in politics; has been trustee of Richland Township. Our subject owns a well-improved farm, and made farming and stock-raising the business of his life till in 1882, when in company with

C. C. Woodard in a first-class buhrs, costing the business is and afterward attended three courses of lectures at Cleveland, Ohio. He began the practice of medicine at Attica, and there continued until 1855. He next located at Toledo, Ohio, where he practiced one year, and in 1856 he located at Albion, Noble county, Ind., and has here been in constant practice ever since. In 1871 and 1872 he attended a full course of lectures at Rush Medical College. He is now a member of the American Medical Society and also of the Noble County Medical Society.

In 1853 Dr. Lemmon married Miss Harriet Chandler, an estimable lady, who died childless in 1858.

To his present accomplished wife the Doctor was married September 1, 1859. She was born January 4, 1835, and is a daughter of Ransom F. Wheeler, of Albion, Ind. To this union have been born three children, namely: Harriet, now married to Frank D. Hall, an accomplished and successful druggist of Newark, Ohio; Anthony E., a resident and successful business man of Albion, and married to Miss Emma Baughman, of Albion; Lillian, married to D. L. Baughman, a successful hardware merchant of Albion.

From the time of its organization and for many years after Dr. Lemmon supported the Republican party, but for the last several years has affiliated with the Prohibition party.

He is a member of Albion Lodge, No. 97, of F. & A. M., and is also a Royal Arch Mason.

The early life of the Doctor was not free from discouragements. By the death of his father in early youth he was, in great measure, thrown upon his own resources, but being blest with a rugged constitution, supplemented by an unusual degree of energy and perseverance, he was, in great measure, enabled to triumph over his early discouragements and to ultimately reach the front rank of his chosen profession.

He is the oldest medical practitioner of Noble county, being here engaged in a constant lucrative practice for over fifty-two years; and, notwithstanding, in point of age, he has passed the scriptural limit, he still devotes his chief attention to the requirements of his profession and in general search for knowledge. Being possessed of financial ability of a high order, he has accumulated a good degree of wealth. He has a well-cultivated mind, and his manners are dignified and free from ostentation. In the evening of life he is reaping the reward of his characteristic industry, energy and careful attention to the minutest details of business. Being situated in his beautiful, spacious and richly furnished home, and surrounded by his interesting family, he and his accomplished wife seem to have the promise of many years yet in which to enjoy their present esthetic surroundings.

FREDERICK HUBER.

The subject of this sketch, whose name is well known throughout Elkhart township, Noble county, belongs to that class of Indiana's prominent pioneers whose presence has proved so beneficial in the development of her agricultural resources and whose labors will ever stand as a monument to glorify and perpetuate their achievements in turning the dense forests and dismal swamps into fertile fields from which has been produced the wealth which has made Indiana great among the sister commonwealths of the nation. Born in Pennsylvania, near the city of Pittsburg, on March 3, 1833, he was but three years old when his parents moved to Allen county, Ohio, and settled on a farm near Lima. Here young Frederick obtained his early education and grew to manhood, and afterward married, February 24, 1857, Miss Mary Stump, who was born in Seneca county, Ohio, July 23, 1838.

Frederick Huber remained in Allen county, Ohio, until the spring of 1859, when he came to Noble county, Ind., with his wife and one child, and purchased one hundred and twenty acres of wild land in Elkhart township. Here he settled down to the task of making a home for himself and young family. Nearly all the work of clearing off the heavy timber and preparing the rich soil for cultivation was performed by Mr. Huber, and its present excellent and highly cultivated fields, the fine residence and out-buildings are an evidence of what has been accomplished through his well-directed efforts and careful attention to the details necessary to produce good results in any undertaking, but most essentially in the vocation of agriculture. Mr. Huber has added to his original purchase until his farm now contains two hundred and five acres, and the passerby can not fail to have his attention drawn to those evidences of thrift which greet the eye.

Mr. and Mrs. Huber's home has been blessed with seven children, namely: Joseph R., who died in his eighteenth year; Henry, who died March 18, 1890, in his thirty-first year; Jesse, who died when nearly twenty-one years of age; Franklin, who died February 19, 1895, when about thirty-two years of age; Samuel, who died January 12, 1894, at the age of twenty-two years; Sarah Ann is the wife of Walter Swihart; Calvin is a farmer in Elkhart township, where he was born June 6, 1866, and was married to Clara E. Swihart, October 2, 1887, she being a native of Noble township, born December 8, 1865, and they are the parents of two children, George Frederick and Mary E. The father of Mrs. Calvin was George T. Swihart and the mother was a Miss Elizabeth Butterbaugh, natives of Ohio, who came to Wabash county, Ind., and subsequently moved to Noble county, prior to the Civil war. The mother died in Elkhart county, October 12, 1896, in her sixtieth year. They were the parents of twelve children, of whom Mrs. Calvin Huber is the sixth in order of birth.

In addition to the loss of five sons, Frederick Huber has been called upon to mourn the loss of his estimable wife, who died in Elkhart township, November 22, 1881. The father of Frederick Huber was Jacob Huber, a native of Germany, and the mother was Barbara Myers, also a native of Germany. They emigrated from Germany in 1833. Both died in Allen county, Ohio, the father at the age of fifty-six years and the mother at seventy-seven. They were the parents of eight children; Frederick, the subject, being the seventh in order of birth.

Mr. Huber has remained single since the death of his wife, and now in his declining years can look back upon a well-spent life, surrounded by his children and grandchildren, in whose future he feels that keen interest which one ever feels in the development of those lives which will carry to future ages the name he has so honorably borne and which is held by a numerous circle

The father of Frederick Huber was Jacob H. a native of Germany, and the mother was Barbara Meyer, also a native of Germany. They emigrated from Germany in 1815. Both died in Allen county, Ohio, in 1841, at the age of ninety years and the mother at ninety-two. They were the parents of eight children, Frederick the subject being the seventh in order of birth.

Mr. Huber has remained single since the death of his wife, and now in his declining years and has had upon a comfortable income, maintained by his children and grandchildren, in whose house he has lived since the year when our first look in the decade of 1841, and since that time will not be able to give the same he has not been active and which is held by a company, that

Born in Germany, near the city of Paderborn, on March 1, 1812, he was but three years old when his parents moved to Allen county, Ohio, and settled on a farm near Lima. These young farmers obtained his early education, and grew to manhood, and attended normal school at Lima, Ohio, where he was born in 1812.

Frederick Huber remained in Allen county, Ohio, until the spring of 1830, when he came to the county jail, with his wife and two children, and purchased one hundred and twenty acres of land, and in 1831, he settled down to the task of making a home for himself and young family. He took all the work of clearing off the heavy timber and preparing the soil and the cultivation was performed by Mr. Huber and his present wife, and his children, and one hundred acres of the fine wheat and corn fields are in evidence of what has been accomplished through his well-directed efforts and energy, and to the debtors of the county to produce good results in any undertaking, but most especially in the cultivation of agriculture. Mr. Huber has added to his original purchase and he has now a fine farm of one hundred and one acres, and the property is well laid to show his attention to these matters of birth, which grew the tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Huber's home has been shared with seven children, namely: John, who died in his eighteenth year; Henry, who died March 21, 1852, in his thirty-fourth year; Isaac, who died when nearly twenty years of age; Frederick, who died February 10, 1851, when about of friends as the synonym of those virtues which mark the real man and worthy citizen.

JOHN LATIMER,

A well-to-do farmer of Noble county, Ind., is a whole-souled, genial gentleman who has won the friendship of all with whom he has been associated. He was born in Mifflin township, Ashland county, Ohio, December 4, 1844, and is a son of William and Sarah N. Latimer. His father was a native of Delaware and his mother of Virginia. The mother died in Ashland county, Ohio, at the age of sixty-four years, but the venerable father is yet living at an advanced age. Their family consisted of nine children.

John Latimer was reared and educated in Ashland county, where he remained until his twenty-eighth year, when he was married and moved to Bates county, Mo., reaching there in the latter part of 1872. This state did not meet his expectations and after a residence there of ten months he once more set his face eastward, locating in Churubusco, Whitley county, Ind. Here, thinking to better his fortunes, he engaged in the livery business for about two years and also did considerable teaming, but the surroundings and associations were very much to his dislike and he disposed of his business and left the county to seek a more congenial location. Reaching Noble county, the richness and fertility of the soil appealed to his judgment and he stopped in Green township for six years, carrying on the pursuits of husbandry. He then settled in Noble township, where he owns one hundred and thirty-five acres and where his successful farming operations have gained him the name of being a thoroughly capable man and one who understands his business to the minutest particular.

On December 17, 1872, in Ashland county, Ohio, was solemnized the marriage of John Latimer and Miss Martha Ward, to whom a family of three children have been born, viz: Minnie E., wife of Oliver Eger; William W.; and Sarah J. Mrs. Latimer is an amiable lady, whose enthusiasm in whatever cause she espouses is the signal of success. She was born in Richland county, Ohio, October 23, 1853, and is one of five children born to Jacob and Hannah (Copeland) Ward. Her father was from Pennsylvania and her mother from that state also. They both died in Richland county, aged sixty-five and sixty-six years respectively.

NEWTON RARICK.

Among the names which are indelibly written on the pages of Noble county's history none occupy a more conspicuous place than that of Newton Rarick, who has been closely identified with the agricultural interests of Indiana since the year 1861, when he came here as a young man and cast in his lot with that of the enterprising citizens who have contributed so nobly to the up-building and growth of Noble county. Mr. Rarick is a native of Ohio, having been ushered into existence in Darke county, about sixty-five years ago.

Jacob Rarick, father of Newton, was a native of Pennsylvania and born in 1802. When about ten years old he became a resi-

HUBER REUNION

The second annual reunion of the Huber family was held Saturday and it proved to be a decided success. The beautiful day, the excellent program rendered, the good cheer of the crowd as well as the bountiful repast helped to make the day one long to be remembered.

The special feature of the program, which was attentively listened to, was a paper read by H. E. Huber, from the able pen of Jesse Huber, of Salem, Oregon, giving a history of the Huber family, from its earliest date in Germany down to their emigration to America and their settling in Richland township, south of Bluffton. This paper will be concluded at the next reunion and will give a family history down to the present time. Appropriate remarks were also made by Rev. E. D. Smith, of Bluffton; S. P. Thompson, of Rensselaer, Ind.; H. P. Owens, of Richland township; Isaac Thompson, of Orange township, who were co-residents and who passed through the trials and tribulations of pioneer life along with the Huber family.

* EARLY SETTLERS *

A HISTORY OF THE HUBER FAMILY, ONE OF EARLY SETTLERS OF ALLEN COUNTY

BY JESSE HUBER

It was early morning in the month of May, seventy-three years ago when the Huber family awoke from their first night spent on their homestead in the forests of Northwestern Ohio. The monotonous sighing of the night winds had ceased. The gray dawn had spread over the East, silencing the hooting owls and heralding the approach of day. The bands of hungry, roving wolves, having made night hideous by their howling, were slinking away to their dens deep in the woodland wilds.

That was a night of troubled sleep. Father and mother were thinking of their friends and home in far-away Germany; of their long and perilous journey to America; of their short but pleasant stay in western Pennsylvania. And, now that they had again become located, they were thinking what should first be done to establish a home and wrest a livelihood from such conditions, inhospitable even terrifying as were there surrounding them.

When the first beams of the rising sun had illuminated the landscape, the family had already finished their breakfast prepared over the campfire.

The scene has changed, all about them were trees, trees, trees and overhead the leafy boughs were so densely matted as to almost hide from view the deep blue sky above. Wild flowers, then in full bloom, smiled a welcome to the delight of the interested children. The woods was musical with the song and chatter of myriads of birds that flitted and sang among the leafy branches.

Now and then a wandering deer would walk in sight of the camp, pause suddenly and, for a few moments, direct his keen, astonished gaze at the intruders and then hurriedly scamper away. The scene that greeted the Huber family in these primeval forests was one of alluring enchantment as well as undisturbed freedom; and but, for the daily recurring wants of shelter, clothing and food, little could have been added to make this bright May day more joyous.

It is in his supplying his daily physical wants however, that man has been made bondsman to

The scene has changed, all about them were trees, trees, trees and overhead the early birds were no longer silent as to almost half from view the deep blue sky above. With flowers, then in full bloom, smiled a welcome to the delight of the interested children. The woods were marked with the song and chatter of myriads of birds that flitted and sang among the leafy branches.

Now and then a wandering deer would walk in sight of the camp, pause suddenly and for a few moments, direct his keen, searching gaze at the intruder and then hastily scamper away. The scene that greeted the Huber family in these primeval forests was one of abiding enchantment as well as undisturbed freedom and for the daily recurring wants of shelter, clothing and food, this could have been added to make this a happy day more joyous.

it was only morning in the month of May, twenty-three years ago when the Huber family awoke from their first night spent on their homestead in the forests of Northwestern Ohio. The monotonous sighing of the night winds had ceased. The gray dawn had spread over the land, silencing the hooting owls and heralding the approach of day. The bands of hungry roving wolves, having made night hideous by their howling, were slinking away to their dens deep in the woodland wilds.

That was a night of eventful sleep. I often and often were thinking of their trials and toils in the early Company of their long and perilous journey to America, of their short but pleasant stay in western Pennsylvania. And now that this land again became lonely, they were thinking what should first be done to establish a home and what a highway from such conditions, inhospitable even to living as were those surrounding them.

Mother Earth. Each life is toilsome in proportion as these three primary needs, shelter, clothing and food are difficult to obtain.

In the case of the Huber family the problems of how to establish a home in these woodland wilds became serious in the extreme. Every acre of their farm was covered with tall forest trees and the soil matted with a network of their roots. And more! One half of the surface was covered with the shallow waters of a stagnant swamp, the home of frogs and turtles and the breeding place of millions of blood-thirsty mosquitoes.

They had as yet no house; their only shelter being the covered wagon in which they slept. Their supply of food which they had brought with them could last but a short time. It was spring and in order to reap a harvest of grain for their future supply of food, it was time to sow the seed. But where was there any cleared land that could be cultivated. Even had a field been planted to corn or wheat the growing crop would have been destroyed by the birds, racoons, deer and other wild animals. To purchase the necessary supplies for the home requires money and a store in which they are offered for sale. As for money, very little cash was in their hands after paying for this land, the expenses incident to moving and selling their goods in Pennsylvania at public sale on nine months credit. Even had they had sufficient cash on hand, the nearest markets were Perrysburg on the Maumee river and Sandusky City on Lake Erie, and to reach these towns, they would have to travel over roads almost impassable, fording swamps and streams, jolting over roots and winding back and forth through an almost interminable forest.

Clothing they had; but garments wear out and new ones will have to be supplied. Shelter they could secure. Not an artistic house modern in all its conveniences for there were no carpenters, no plumbers, masons, no hardware stores, no sawmills and no planing mills.

There was however, plenty of standing timber at hand. With an ax as the only carpenter tool the father and sons built a one story log cabin on the site where the old orchard stands at the north end of the farm now owned by John Huber.

Clothing was not so easily provided. When the supply ran low, the mother found it necessary to cut up the heavy canvass wagon cover and make garments out of it.

A few weeks after the Hubers had moved into their new cabin home, the monotony of life was unexpectedly interrupted. A rap was heard on the door. Hurriedly opening it, there before the astonished family stood a strange man. He was tall, erect and agile in build; eyes dark, keen and alert; face kind, intellectual, expressing firmness and bronzed by exposure to the sunshine and wintry storms. He wore a cap made of racoon skin and his fringed hunting suit was manufactured from tanned deer skin. Around his waist he wore a leather belt from which a long keen knife and powder horn were suspended. He stood resting his two hands on his rifle, while at his side, were two very large, brindle dogs, vicious looking fellows who kept a watchful eye on surroundings as if guarding and protecting their master.

"I've come to get acquainted with my new neighbors," said the stranger, his tanned face wreathing into a smile as he extended his long, bony hand in friendly welcome.

Who was this frontiersman? The Hubers had learned of no one residing far or near except Daniel De Ford and family who lived where Bluffton is now located. It was Tobias Wood, the veteran hunter and trapper; the Daniel Boon of Allen County, who was the nearest neighbor toward the southwest. His home was one mile south of Beaverdam and seven miles from the Huber cabin.

Every acre of their farm was covered with tall forest trees and the soil matted with a network of their roots. And most of the half of the surface was covered with the shallow water in a stagnant swamp, the home of frogs and turtles and the breeding place of millions of blood-thirsty mosquitoes.

They had no set on houses, their only shelter being the covered wagon in which they slept. Their supply of food which they had brought with them could last but a short time. It was spring and in order to reap a harvest of grain for their future supply of food it was time to sow the seed. But when there was no stored food that could be consumed. Even had a field been plowed to grow or when the growing crop would have been destroyed by the birds, raccoons, deer and other wild animals. To purchase the necessary supplies for the home required money and a store in which they are offered for sale. As for money, very little cash was in their hands after paying for this land, the expenses incident to moving and selling their goods in Pennsylvania at public sale on one month's credit. Even had they had sufficient cash to hand, the nearest markets were far enough on the bluffs of the Ohio and Sandusky City on Lake Erie, and to reach these towns they would have to travel over roads almost impassable, leading swamps and streams, jolting over rocks and winding back and forth through an almost impenetrable forest.

Nothing had been done since then and now men will have to be supplied. Whether they could secure food to sustain human nature in all its necessities, for there was no carpenter, no plumber, mason, no hardware store, no sawmill and no planing mill.

been passed offering a bounty for the scalps of these wild beasts. Turning to the boys standing near him he said: "Boys, have you heard any wolves around here lately?" "Yes" they said, "They are howling around here every night." "Well, I'll be after them" he said.

And so he was. Every spring the old man would come to the Huber cabin where he was always doubly welcome. He would leave his supplies at the house and go down along the marsh, camping at night on the farms now owned by Henry Huber and Mrs. Regina Matter and others in that vicinity.

The old hunter was well acquainted with the habits of the gray timber wolf. He knew it was useless to hunt them in the open. They were sly, cunning and could scent the approach of a hunter long before he came into sight. But few of the early settlers ever caught sight of a wolf in the timbers, though the fresh tracks of these roaming animals could be seen.

* THE OLD WOLF HUNTER *

IN A FIERCE FIGHT WITH TIMBER WOLVES IN THE WILDS OF RICHLAND TOWNSHIP

Second Installment of the Huber Family History

BY JESSE HUBER

It was Tobias Wood's practice to sit quietly beside his campfire in the dead of the night and listen to the howling of the wolves all around him. When he would hear a pack of those forest canines howling and lamenting at one particular place, he knew there were some young cubs near by and these he wanted to capture as their scalps were worth as much as the ears and top knot of the full-grown ones.

There usually was an exciting time when the old trapper and his dogs would finally discover the wolf den. A battle royal would first be fought by the dogs and the parent wolf trying to protect her cubs. The fierce fight would always end in the dead wolf lying before the victorious dogs. Then the young wolves, sometimes nearly full-grown and four or five in number, would be let out of the den, one or two at a time, and the death-dealing work of the powerful dogs would continue until the last wolf lay dead on the ground.

One night the old man nearly lost his life in the locality of the present Eli Matter farm. He had been sitting beside the camp fire for several hours listening to the wailing cries of the wolves, when suddenly he heard a sharp snap and snarl in the darkness nearby. He sicked his dogs. They rushed into the darkness together. A fierce fight followed. Soon the dogs came back trembling with fear and sat beside their master.

The old wolf hunter understood the situation at once. He was camping near a wolf den and a pack of wolves were out defending the young cubs. They outnumbered the dogs and drove them away. They set up a dismal howling which was answered by other wolves roaming through the forest. They began to gather in toward the campfire. The hunter, realizing his danger, hurriedly built up his camp fire, knowing the wild beasts would not come near the blazing light. Time and again he urged the dogs into the darkness, but each time they would hurry back with a lot of ferocious wolves barking, yelping and snapping at them.

Now and then some of the more daring beasts would come within the circle of light and with bristles erect, would crouch, snarl and snap, showing their vicious, white teeth and their keen and brilliant eyes blazing with fury. When they approached too closely, the old man would hurl firebrands at them and frighten them back into the darkness.

But the hunter knew he could not defend himself in that way until morning as his supply of wood would not last much longer. He prepared to get out of his perilous situation. So preparing two large torches, he set them afire and while they were blazing he held one on each side of him. He then moved away from the campfire out into the darkness. A large pack of wolves soon encircled their retreating enemy barking, snapping and viciously lashing their tongues in the full glare of the light. They followed for fully a half mile, but under guard of the torches and his two faithful dogs, the old wolf hunter got safely beyond the line of danger. He reached the Huber cabin early the following morning, rather nervous from his terrifying experience. That afternoon he returned to the scene of his tragic experience. He was accompanied by Charles Huber. The wolf den was located by the dogs in a large hollow log near the smouldering campfire. When all had been captured, the count showed the scalps of two large wolves and seven small ones in their possession.

Soon after the Huber family had moved into their cabin home, they began clearing away the timber from several acres near the house preparatory to planting the corn and wheat the following season. Those of the pioneers present, who have had experience in this toilsome work and the meager yields in growing grain among the stumps, guarding it against destruction by wild birds and wild animals and then reap in with sickle or cradle and thresh it with flail, know that the harvest in no sense repays for the labor and anxiety expended. But when bread is needed and the only way to get it is by first performing the arduous work of clearing off the primeval forest from the soil, the strenuous task will be readily undertaken. Such is the human instinct of self preservation. The dread of hunger and nothing at hand with which to satisfy its pangs was an ever-present fear among the first settlers in the forest wilds. The grim, emaciated specter of famine was always stalking near, threatening to touch each member of the household with the slow withering blight of death.

So thoroughly had the dread of famine become implanted into the lives of many of the early pioneers that long after this part of the state had become settled and prosperous, the more apprehensive ones would predict famine when the unfavorable weather would threaten a shortage or failure of crops.

When the Huber household fully realized the peril of their situation each member settled down to hard work and the practice of the most rigid economy. Everything that might help to feed and clothe them was brought into use. They were fortunate in having some money coming to them from the sale of their stock and farm implements when they left Pennsylvania. These notes fell due in December of 1836, the year of their arrival in Allen County. There were no bankers, postoffices, or express lines through which money could be transferred into these parts as now. The only way the Hubers could get this money was for someone to go after it in person.

Accordingly, in the dead of winter, Charles Huber, then 19 years old, set out afoot for Beaver, Pa., walking every foot of the distance there and back. Beyond Bucyrus the stage passed him every day going in his direction, but he felt he could not afford the expense of riding as a passenger. Having collected the money he returned home safely and delivered the amount to his parents, having been absent nearly one month.

So thoroughly had the idea of human danger implanted into the lives of many of the early pioneers that long after this part of the state had become settled and prosperous, the same apprehensive fear would persist during what the unsympathetic would threaten a shortage or failure of crops.

There was no business profitable, or expense was through which money could be transferred from these parts to west. The only way the Hubers could get the money was the manner to go after it in person.

Accordingly, in the dead of winter, Charles Huber, then 19 years old, set out alone for Kansas, Pa., walking every foot of the distance there and back. Beyond Kansas the stage passed him every day going in his direction, but he felt he could not afford the expense of riding as a passenger. Having collected the money he returned home safely and delivered the amount to his parents, having been absent nearly one month.

PIONEERS GLAD FOR CONVENIENCE OF THE FIRST GRIST MILL BUILT BY JOHN STUMP

Third Installment of the Huber Family History

A few years after the Hubers had established their home, new settlers began to come in. The desirable land had about all been previously bought and was held by speculators, or by parties residing in the older sections of Ohio. Among the first neighbors to arrive were Daniel Casey who built a cabin on the banks of Riley Creek where the old orchard stands by Scott Bentley's farm west of the bridge on the county line road. Then came the Carnahan family and located west of Bluffton on the site of S. D. Motter's home. Daniel Goble and family, soon after, located where the former residence of the late James H. Eaton now stands.

Lands just east of the County Line road were soon occupied by the Thompson, Ewing, Anderson and Battles families. Among the survivors of the Thompson family is the venerable Isaac Thompson now over eighty years of age, whose years of service as pioneer school teacher and, later, as legal adviser, has won for him the respect and honor of more than two generations of friends and neighbors.

A little later, came the Owens, Fenton and Stump families. The coming of John Stump and his household of boys and girls was a most important event in the pioneer days of settlers south of Bluffton and particularly so to the Huber family, as two of the sons, Charles and Frederick, later became the fortunate husbands of the two fair daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Stump.

Mr. Stump was an enterprising man, of old revolutionary stock. He secured possession of the quarter section just east of the Riley Creek bridge, forty acres of which are now owned by Mrs. Hannah Battles. Before coming to his new home, Mr. Stump let a contract to someone of the new-comers to cut down and get ready for burning all the timber on ten acres of his land, agreeing to pay him a fixed price for this labor. This contractor then sublet the contract to a young man to do all the chopping.

One morning Charles Huber was walking along Riley Creek. It was frosty and cold and the snow lay deeply upon the ground. He was surprised to hear the ring of a woodsman's ax not far away. Walking in the direction of the sound he came to where this youngman had felled a giant oak, four feet in diameter, and was then cutting it into lengths for rails. He had cut notches down along the side into which he could stand so he could reach the bottom with his ax. He was rather lightly dressed for such cold weather. He had on no shoes; but his feet were wrapped in bands of rough goods. He explained that he was anxious to complete his part of the contract so he could get some money with which to buy some clothing and provisions. He had built a small cabin in the clearing in which he was staying alone.

Our forefathers of Mr. and Mrs. John Stump.

Mr. Stump was an enterprising man, of old revolutionary stock. He secured a location of the present section just east of the Rapp Creek bridge, near some of which are now owned by Mrs. George Huber. Before coming to his new home, Mr. Stump let a contract to someone of the new owners to cut down and get ready for burning all the timber on the west of his land, agreeing to pay him a fixed price for this labor. This contract was what the contract is a young man to do all the clearing.

One morning Charles Huber was walking along Rapp Creek. It was frosty and cold and the snow lay deep upon the ground. He was surprised to hear the rustle of woodmen as he went by. Walking in the direction of the sound he came to where this young man had felled a giant oak, that fell in diameter, and was then cutting it into lengths for rails. He had cut another down when the side into which he could stand as he could reach the bottom with his ax. He was rather lightly dressed for such cold weather. He had on no shoes, but his feet were wrapped in bands of rough goods. He explained that he was anxious to complete his part of the contract so he could get some money with which to buy some clothing and provisions. He had built a small cabin in the clearing in which he was staying alone.

A few years after the Hubers had established their home new settlers began to come in. The desirable land had about all been previously bought and was held by speculators, or by parties residing in the older sections of Ohio. Among the first neighbors to arrive were Daniel Clegg who built a cabin on the banks of Rapp Creek where the old orchard stands by Scott Bonaparte's farm west of the bridge on the county line road. Then came the Cleggs as a family and located west of Bluffton on the east of S. D. Motter's farm. Daniel Clegg and family soon after located where the former residence of the late James H. Brown now stands.

Land just east of the Clegg line road was soon occupied by the Thompsons, living Anderson and family. Among the survivors of the Thompson family is the venerable Isaac Thompson now over eighty years of age, whose grand old services as pioneer school teacher and later as legal adviser, has won for him the respect and honor of more than two generations of friends and neighbors.

A little later came the Greens, Funks and Stumps families. The coming of John Stump and his household of boys and girls was a most important event in the progress of settlers west of Bluffton and particularly so to the Huber family, as two of the sons, Charles and Frederick, have become the fortunate husbands of the two

This courageous young man, stout of heart and strong of muscle, was the late William Lewis, senior, whose familiar face was known by almost everyone who, within the past half century, resided in or near Bluffton. But unfortunately for Mr. Lewis, when he had completed the work of the clearing included in the contract, the head contractor collected the full amount from Mr. Stump agreeing to pay him on his return. But the man quietly moved his family away and Mr. Lewis never got a dollar for all of his hard work.

In justice to Mr. Stump, however, it must be said that he knew nothing of the sub-contract and was told by the original contractor that he himself did the work. But when the fraud was discovered Mr. Stump befriended Mr. Lewis by giving him remunerative employment and advancing necessary supplies.

Now came an event in which the whole community was deeply interested. Mr. Stump decided to build a grist mill. Accordingly, a dam was built across Riley creek and the mill put into operation under water power.

Up to this time settlers had to travel a long distance to get flour or have their grain ground. Charles and William Huber made several trips by wagon to Sandusky City, taking wheat, deer hides and maple sugar to exchange [for] flour and other household supplies. On one of these trips their load was too heavy for the strength of their wagon and the fearfully rough condition of the roads. Both axles of the wagon broke and each time they had to make a new axle by the use of the ax and a few other tools brought with them.

Two trips had been made on horseback each time with a bushel of wheat, to the small mill at Bellefontaine. Some little grinding was done in a small way at home. But now that the Stump mill was in operation, this phase of pioneer hardship was largely eliminated. Grinding was done for toll. Mr. Stump supplied some of the poorer families with flour in exchange for work. Some of these families were supplied with bread during periods of want by Mr. Stump's liberality in advance of work done. Some of these credits were never paid. But Mr. Stump was by nature kind and generous and felt that because he had been able to relieve the hunger of some who might have suffered innocently he was being sufficiently repaid.

In their supply of meat the settlers were more fortunate. Deer, turkeys and squirrels were plentiful. Even fish in Riley creek, which is said to have been a much larger stream then than now, were of respectable size and quite abundant.

But game is wild and must be captured before it can be eaten. There were no repeating Winchester rifles in those early days. Flint-lock guns were in general use. A good gun was a valuable piece of property.

The Huber family was the fortunate possessor of a large 44 caliber rifle, which when discharged in the quiet forest, resounded like a clap of thunder. The "kick" or recoil was of such force as almost turn its holder completely around or send him back to a sudden unceremonious seat upon the ground. Some men refused to fire that gun. When the cloud of smoke had cleared away, the marksman would gather himself up; feel the bruise on his shoulder, shake himself together and load up for another shot.

When a deer was hit by the leaden projectile from this particular gun a hole was torn through its body almost large enough through which you might shove your fist. The rifle gave the bullet a vicious circular movement. Charles Huber used to say that their rifle had a long range; but when a bullet struck a deer in the fleshy portion of the hind quarters there was not much meat left on the deer that was fit to eat.

Amunition in those days was scarce and expensive. It was accordingly thought best that only one of the boys should learn to be a marksman. William, the second son, offered himself as a living sacrifice to learn to handle that gun. He was then a vigorous, robust young man, eighteen years of age and quite able to master that musket. His keen sight and steady nerve enabled him to become an accurate marksman.

Charles and William Huber were taught the strategy of deer hunting by Tobias Wood. When going on a hunt, Charles would ride a horse and William with gun on shoulder would walk directly behind the horse. When a deer was seen, they would leisurely go toward the animal until within range of their gun. One morning they started up a big antlered fellow on the low ridge near the center of Joseph Huber's farm. This animal was the most tantalizing they had ever pursued. William had fired at him several times during the day. Each time he bounded away. William declared that some mysterious power must be protecting the life of that deer. The sun was sinking low and the boys were about to give up the chase.

tree and Charles rode to the right. A few moments of breathless silence, and then the report of the old musket rang out making the quiet woodland ring with its deafening report. The deer dropped dead. The boys gleefully placed the fat antlered beauty on their horse and carried him home in triumph.

The champion deer slayer of pioneer days was the elder John Carnahan. He frequently shot four or five in a single day's hunt. One day in winter he came by the Huber cabin with seven deer on a sled. His practice was to ride through the woods with a large cowbell strapped on his horse's neck. In this way he could ride to rather close range while a deer would be standing and watching the movement of this strange sight. At a given signal, his horse would stop and remain motionless and the old hunter would take deliberate aim and fire while sitting in his saddle.

Two years after the Huber family located on their homestead, a bright-faced baby boy came to cheer their home. November 3, 1838 was the date of his birth. He soon became the pet of the family and the idol of his devoted mother. They named him Henry. In a few years he grew to be a strong, rosy-cheeked, flaxen-haired youth and a favorite among the pioneer children in his neighborhood. Among his playmates were the Hand children, then living with their parents on the farm now owned by Daniel Huber and a group of young lads of the household of Mr and Mrs. John Stump.

The favorite haunts of Henry and his young friends were the banks of old Riley creek. Few children enjoyed more the romantic freedom of their youthful days. On Sunday they would gather at the Stump mill dam and enjoy a plunge in the clear warm water.

Few children have had more wholesome surroundings in their early years than Henry, Frederick and Jacob Huber. They were reared far away from the contaminating influences of the city or closely populated communities. They were schooled in habits of industry and economy and grew to manhood, strong in body and mind.

The father, Jacob Frederick Huber, was by profession a blacksmith, a skilled workman in iron and a useful man in the community. As the locality began to settle up, he was kept fairly busy in doing work at the forge.

Nine years after reaching Ohio, his health failed and on October 16, 1845 he peacefully passed away. Kind neighbors bore his remains to the old burial ground on the banks of Riley creek in Bluffton followed by his sorrowing widow and children. Jacob Frederick Huber died, 56 years of age, respected and honored by all who knew him.

A crisis had now come into the Huber household. Barbara Huber his devoted companion during life, had now to assume the management of affairs. She bore her burdens bravely and assisted by her sons and one daughter, came down through the fire period of pioneer life in these parts, successfully overcoming all difficulties. She was of strong personality and possessed of good business judgement. She reared her family to maturity and left each one a fair competence.

Barbara Huber, like other wives and mothers in those early pioneer days, was a real heroine. When we do honor to the noble men of that period, we must do equal honor to the women who toiled with them, discharging the routine work of the home, rearing the family, often spinning and weaving the cloth for the garments; and some even working in the clearings, rolling logs and helping their husbands to pile and burn the brush.

It is too late to honor fittingly in person, those heroines of the border. They have about all passed away. We who are now enjoying much of the fruits of their labors, however, can sacredly revere their memory.

His practice was to ride through the woods with a large bow and arrows on his horse's neck. In this way he could ride to within close range with a deer would be standing and waiting the moment of the arrow's flight. At a given signal, the horse would stop and remain motionless and the old hunter would take deliberate aim and the white sitting in his saddle.

Two years after the Huber family located on their homestead a bright-faced baby came to their little home. November 7, 1838 was the date of his birth. He soon became the pet of the family and the first of his devoted mother. They named him Henry. In a few years he grew to be a strong, rosy-cheeked, black-haired youth and a favorite among the pioneer children in his neighborhood. Among his playmates were the finest children then living with their parents on the farm owned by Daniel Huber and a group of young sons of the household of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry.

The favorite haunts of Henry and his young friends were the banks of old Kelley creek. Few children enjoyed more the romantic freedom of their youthful days. On Sunday they would gather at the stump mill dam and enjoy a plunge in the clear warm water.

Few children have had more wholesome surroundings in their early years than Henry, Frederick and Jacob Huber. They were reared in the very best of the contemporary influences of the day in a deeply religious community. They were men, who fought against nature's hard conditions, laid low the tall giants of the forest and cleared the heavy timber from the now productive broad acres and square miles of agricultural land extending in every direction. Equal honor to the wives and mothers, daughters and sisters of those soul-trying years of hardship and toil.

"The bravest battle that was ever fought
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you'll find it not,
'Twas fought by the mothers of men,
Nay, not with cannon or battle shot,
With sword or noble pen,
Nay, not with eloquent word or thought
From the mouths of wonderful men,
But deep in the walled-up woman's heart--
Of woman that would not yield,
But bravely, silently bore her part--
Lo! There is the battlefield.
No marshalling troop, no bivouac song,
No banner to gleam and wave!
But, oh! these battles last so long,
From babyhood to the grave."

men, who fought against nature's conditions, and for the sake of the future and the past, they fought for the new progressive ideas and the new order of things, and standing in every direction. I speak here to the men and women, teachers and students of this academy, years of hardship and toil.

"The hardest battle that was ever fought
I shall tell you when and where.
On the range of the world you'll find it true,
I was fought for the mother's life,
Not with cannon or battle ship,
With sword or noble pen,
Not with eloquent word or stanza,
I won the rights of woman's life,
But deep in the walls of woman's heart,
Of woman that would not yield,
But fought, silently, her own part,
For there is the battle field.
No man's hand took no divine song,
No banner to gleam and wave,
But not these hands lost no flag,
From captured to the grave."

HISTORIC ADDRESS

N. W. CUNNINGHAM GIVES A VIVID DESCRIPTION OF EARLY DAYS IN RICHLAND TWP.

The following is a part of the address delivered by N. W. Cunningham before the Allen County Historical society in Memorial Hall, at Lima, and is now filed in the archives of that association as a part of the history of Allen County.

Richland Township was formerly a part of Putnam county, and was organized in 1835, under authority granted by the commissioners of Putnam county. The line between Allen and Putnam counties was near the Bucyrus state road that runs east and west through Beaver Dam, five miles south of Bluffton, which was a thoroughfare of importance in an early day. In February, 1848, when Auglaize county was formed, Putnam county gave over a tier of sections of land, now known as the mile strip, making Richland township have an area of forty-two square miles. This part of Ohio was heavily timbered, particularly with walnut, oak and hickory; these great monarchs of the forest giving the first settlers a hint as to the quality of the soil, for any man of the woods and the farm knows that it takes good soil to grow big trees and good hardwood. When Northwestern Ohio was opened up for settlement, many farmers from the hilly country in the eastern part of the state, weary of hillside farming in stony and unproductive soils, changed ends of the same state, and the wise ones having knowledge of the fertility of black soil, sought the lands in the vicinity of the streams, the bottom lands, hence the settlements along Hog creek, Blanchard river, Riley creek; the Auglaize and Sugar creek. Into Richland came also some people from western Pennsylvania, and many Swiss, from Wayne county, of the faith of Menno Simon.

WHO WAS HERE FIRST.

It is not of much importance to run down days and months to establish who were the very first settlers.

Probably there were settlers here as early as 1880 [1830?], but my old friend George W. Goble, now living near Bluffton at ninety years of age, whom it was my pleasure to visit but a few weeks ago, says the country was practically new, and the forests virgin, when they came in 1834. Here are some names before 1835, Henry Swank, Josiah Gaskill, Isaac and John and Green McHenry, (brothers), Joseph Deford, John Carnahan, Joseph Cokenour.

Bluffland then, Richland, the English and Sugar creek. Into Richland came also some people from western Pennsylvania, and many Swans, from Wayne county, of the fall of 1830.

It is not of much importance to run down these old records to establish who were the very first settlers.

Probably there were settlers here as early as 1820 (1820?), but up old friend George W. The Hubers came in 1835, and settled south of where Bluffton now stands. George W. Gobel was born March 20 1819, in Washington county, Pa., and lived there until fourteen years of age, when with his father, Daniel L. Gobel, they started for Ohio with two six-horse teams, and one four-horse team, and in 18 days reached the end of their journeys, now in the heart of Bluffton, where they bought forty acres of land of one of the McHenrys for $200, and soon after 160 acres of Mr. Jones for $500. Caleb Gaskill was living here then with his large family and he and his son Josiah were prominent in pioneer days. Henry Carter, who came in 1834, was a Madison county man, and product of it, and when he was a little in his cups, which he was betimes, (I knew him as an old man in 1875) he would hunt up all the friends of his native country [county?], and take a bumper for "good old Madison." The record of land buyers for the sections in Richland township begins in 1831, but is busiest in 1883, 1834, 1835 and 1836. It was my good fortune to come into the township while the first settlers were yet on "mercy's side of the grave," as a good old deacon always put it, implying that there was little for us on the other side). I took supper with Chris. Bucher the day he was one hundred years old, and if you remember the Defiance convention when Bill Hill beat Doan Cunningham one vote for the democratic nomination for congress, (1878) you know the day. Peter Bucher, son of Christian, still lives at the good old age of 93, having been over seventy years on the same farm, 2 miles west of Bluffton. Daniel, son of Michael Neuenschwander, who settled section 34, town one, south range east, was a friend of mine who often talked of the times long ago, when he went to Sandusky to mill, and his son-in-law, Jacob Schaeublin, now an old man himself, living in Pandora, wrote a history of the German settlement, and of the experiences of the very earliest settlers which was published a few years ago in the BLUFFTON NEWS, and which by consent of the writer I am permitted to add to this paper.

ROAD LAID OUT.

Sometime in 1835 the pioneers joined in cutting out a road thirty feet wide (now Main street in Bluffton), from John Carnahan's to the Hancock county line, which afterward became a part of the Lima and Findlay road. It was a great improvement to have a cut road, even for a short distance. This was the first cut out road in the township, the other roads being more like paths through the woods.

MILL AT PUTNAM COUNTY.

Isaac Stout and Elijah Stout built a mill on the Blanchard river, at Gilboa, which was a great convenience as only ten miles through the mud, the wilderness and the swamp, was not considered an inconvenient journey, in fact things were getting a little handy.

MILL AT BLUFFTON.

Richard Hathaway built a mill on Riley creek, just a little above where the railroad bridge now crosses Riley, in Bluffton, before 1840, and there was great joy in the settlement, for it marked the end of hand grinding corn, and of "niggering corn," and cut off the journey to Gilboa. The mill was just two large mill stones, the lower one solid and the upper one fastened to an iron rod, so when the Riley creek flood came, around and around went the grinders. Still can be seen the banks of the mill site, but not a shred of the mill is left by the dam site.

HOW DID THEY MAKE A LIVING?

When the settlers came into the new country they generally had some provision, a little corn or meal, or meat, a team, a cow or two and several dogs. If they bought land all hands and all neighbors pitched in to build a log cabin, and that done, everybody went to work to clear off a patch of land for corn. Oh, mighty monarchs of the forests! To think of your destruction. Sailing down the river Clyde, as the setting sun gilded the palaces of the great men of the steamship lines, I shook my fist at their great summer palaces, poor feeble expression of a futile rage. It is only thirty years ago since the ship timber

Sometime in 1872 the pioneers found in cutting out a road thirty feet wide (now Main street in Bluffton) from John Cunningham's to the Hancock county line, which afterward became a part of the line and Paddy road. It was a great improvement to have a cut road, even for a short distance. This was the first cut out road in the township, the other roads being more like paths through the woods.

MILL AT BLUEFISH CREEK

Isaac Stout and Elijah Stout built a mill on the Bluffton river at Bluffton, which was a great convenience only an mile through the mill, the millstones and the sawing was not considered an inconvenient journey, in fact things were getting a little handy.

MILL AT BLUEFISH

Richard Halsey built a mill on Killy creek, just a little above where the railroad bridge now crosses Killy, in Bluffton before 1845, and there was great joy in the settlement. It was the first of kind of hand grinding corn, and of "lightning corn", and was the first mill in Bluffton. The mill was just two large mill stones, the lower one solid and the upper one fastened to an iron rod, so when the Killy creek flooded came around and around went the grinders. Still can be seen the banks of the mill site, but not a shred of the mill is left by the dam site.

HOW THE FARMERS MADE A LIVING

When the settlers came into the new country they generally had some provision, a little corn or wheat, or meat, a cow or two and several deer. If they couldn't find all these and all neighbors picked in to build a lot of corn, and then some everybody went to work to clear off a patch of land for corn. The mighty necessity of the forest. To think of your destination. Sailing down the river I give as the saying was guided the path of the great men of the township here. I think my list in their green summer patches, from foolish expression of a little more. It is only thirty years ago since the ship timber

The Hubers came in 1822, and settled south of where Bluffton now stands. (George W. Gobel was born March 29 1818 in Washington county, Pa., and lived there until twenty years of age, when with his father, Daniel L. Gobel, they started for Ohio with two six-horse teams, and one four-horse team, and in 18 days reached the end of their journey, now in the heart of Bluffton, where they bought forty acres of land of one of the McHenry's for $2500, and soon after 1860 acres of Mr. Jones for $2500. Caleb Gobel was living here then with his large family and he and his son Isaac were prominent in pioneer days. Henry Carter, who came in 1834, was a Madison county man, and brother of it, and when he was a boy in his days, which he was born in 1800, he was an old man in 1872, he would hunt up all the friends of his native country (county), and take a bumper for "good old Madison". The record of land before the two sections in Bluffton township begins in 1821, but is broken in 1822, 1823, 1824 and 1825. It was no good fortune to come into the township while the first settlers were yet on "merry's side of the grave." At a good old settler always put it, implying that there was little for us on the other side. I took support with Capt. Fisher the day he was one hundred years old, and if you remember the Delaware conference when Bill Hill beat John Cunningham one vote for the democratic nomination to congress (1878) you know the day. Peter Fisher, son of Christian, still lives at the good old age of 97, having been over sixty years on the same farm, 7 miles west of Bluffton. Daniel, son of Michael Neumann, who settled section 14, town one, south range east, was a friend of mine who often talked of the times long ago when he went to Kentucky to mill, and his son-in-law, Jacob Schaeffer, now an old man himself, living in Bluffton, wrote a history of the German settlement and of the experience of the very earliest settlers which was published a few years ago in the Bluffton News, and which by consent of the writer I am allowed to add to this paper.

men were devastating our magnificent forests, and shipping the product to Europe, to the ship yards of the British Isles; for the people over there were too wood wise to allow them to use up all the good timber for ships, preferring to have it bought for a song from inexperienced America, who would find out, when too late, what she had lost. The soil being new and strong would produce corn year after year, without rotation of crops, and the people lived on corn, in some of its forms. No doubt most of those who hear me are raised on fried mush for breakfast, "pone" and pork for dinner and mush and milk for supper. Why, I was, and I was born as late as 1856. To be real honest with you I will confess now, that while I have eaten all sorts of "messes" in many different countries, I have yet to find a better dish than corn. Our life is too complex, and our food too fussy. I have often wished that I could, like Thoreau, plant my little hundred hills of corn for my eating, and have one little room without burdensome frills for house, and watch the birds twitter in the tree tops, and listen to the frogs in the pond. The pioneers didn't sip bouillion from the side of a round spoon; they waded into grub with small attention to polite rules. It is told of a well known pioneer, whose name would be known to many of you were I to name it, that at the end of the meal, when there usually remained a pint or so of side meat gravy in the dish from which the meat had disappeared, that he would lift up the dish, a hand on either side to steady it, and drink down the contents with a sigh of satisfaction, and an exclamation; "Ah, that's the stuff." Such a man could lift a barrel of whiskey by the chimes, and lick a bear, or beat an old maid in a hugging match.

This life is too complex, and our food too large. I have often wished that I could like Thymus, plant my little pointed hills of corn for my eating, and have one little room without business, full for house, and watch the birds twice in the two days, and listen to the frogs in the pond. * HISTORY OF THE HUBERS *

2. Industrial Development of the Community
3. Some Problems Faced by Early Settlers

We have, on several former occasions, followed the Huber family in their home in Germany, down the Rhine, across the wide ocean to their landing at Philadelphia. We have traced their slow and arduous journey westward across the Alleghany mountains and into the vast forest region of Northwestern Ohio to their final home among the tall, thickly ste trees two miles south of the present site of Bluffton.

We ahve noted some of the trials incident to pioneer life, endured by this fvamily during their first years of struggle to establish a home in these inhospitable wilds. We had reached thje crisis in the family life when Death entered their cabin home and with icy hand cruelly removed Jacob Frederick Huber, The kind and affectionate husband and father, from the family circle. We have seen Barbara Huber, the widowed mother and her six children return to their woodland home and continue their struggle for existence similar to the arduous conditions through which they had already passed.

Today, let us take a more extended view of the locality in which the Hubers lived, noting some of the neighbors with whom they had become associated; the industrial development of the community and the problems which beset their daily life.

The historic information herein contained has, necessarily been gathered from many sources and persons many of whom are now deceased. For valuable services rendered in the preparation of this account of pioneer life in relation to the Huber family, I desire to express my obligations to Mrs. Jane Lehman, Isaac Thompson, Henry Huber, H. D. Zerbach, Joseph Huber, Professor David S. White of the Ohio State University and to the Professors Jordan and Harris, eminent scientists of the University of Chicago.

The first settlers an the lands along the headwaters of Riley Creek were, in some respects a remarkable people. They were of the best blood of the eastern states and of Europe.

Some, it is true, were of the unthrifty class; but these soon found that there was no place for idlers and they soon moved on.

these was Daniel Casey, a near neighbor of the Hubers and a frequent caller at their home. Mr. Casey came here from eastern Ohio and built his cabin beside a spring, a half mile west of the Riley Creek bridge on the farm now owned by W. S. Bentley. He had brought considerable gold coin from the east, which, some have said was as much as $2000.

Casey was an eccentric old bachelor and lived all alone, his only companion being his faithful dog. There were no banks in this locality then. He stated to several of his neighbors that he had money and wanted to keep it under his immediate control as he might need it at any time. He was frank in telling some of his neighbors that he believed the best way to keep his money was to bury it.

Casey grew old. He was found dead one day, outstretched on his cabin floor. Beside him lay his dog, faithful to the last guarding the lifeless remains of his old master. Dr. Ward, the pioneer physician, was called and pronounced death due to old age complicated with dropsy.

In the settlement of his estate no gold coin was found about the cabin. Casey was economical and so far as anyone knew, spent no more than his current income. If Casey buried the gold, as he said he would, the secret died with him. This has been the belief of many of his neighbors.

Attempts have been made by some unknown persons to find this hidden treasure. As late as twenty years ago, someone bored about two dozen holes into the earth over which the old cabin stood, the full depth of a fence post auger. Just what became of the old man's money will probably always remain one of the unsolved mysteries of pioneer days.

Adjoining the Huber lands on the west was the farm of Mr. and [Mrs.] Leopold Reymer. They had one son named Nicholas; and one daughter named Catherine. Nicholas later became the husband of Caroline Huber, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob F. Huber; and Catherine became the wife of Asa Battles and the devoted mother of a large family of children.

and afterward attended three courses of lectures at Cleveland, Ohio. He began the practice of medicine at Attica, and there continued until 1855. He next located at Toledo, Ohio, where he practiced one year, and in 1856 he located at Albion, Noble county, Ind., and has here been in constant practice ever since. In 1871 and 1872 he attended a full course of lectures at Rush Medical College. He is now a member of the American Medical Society and also of the Noble County Medical Society.

In 1853 Dr. Lemmon married Miss Harriet Chandler, an estimable lady, who died childless in 1858.

To his present accomplished wife the Doctor was married September 1, 1859. She was born January 4, 1835, and is a daughter of Ransom F. Wheeler, of Albion, Ind. To this union have been born three children, namely: Harriet, now married to Frank D. Hall, an accomplished and successful druggist of Newark, Ohio; Anthony E., a resident and successful business man of Albion, and married to Miss Emma Baughman, of Albion; Lillian, married to D. L. Baughman, a successful hardware merchant of Albion.

From the time of its organization and for many years after Dr. Lemmon supported the Republican party, but for the last several years has affiliated with the Prohibition party.

He is a member of Albion Lodge, No. 97, of F. & A. M., and is also a Royal Arch Mason.

The early life of the Doctor was not free from discouragements. By the death of his father in early youth he was, in great measure, thrown upon his own resources, but being blest with a rugged constitution, supplemented by an unusual degree of energy and perseverance, he was, in great measure, enabled to triumph over his early discouragements and to ultimately reach the front rank of his chosen profession.

He is the oldest medical practitioner of Noble county, being here engaged in a constant lucrative practice for over fifty-two years; and, notwithstanding, in point of age, he has passed the scriptural limit, he still devotes his chief attention to the requirements of his profession and in general search for knowledge. Being possessed of financial ability of a high order, he has accumulated a good degree of wealth. He has a well-cultivated mind, and his manners are dignified and free from ostentation. In the evening of life he is reaping the reward of his characteristic industry, energy and careful attention to the minutest details of business. Being situated in his beautiful, spacious and richly furnished home, and surrounded by his interesting family, he and his accomplished wife seem to have the promise of many years yet in which to enjoy their present esthetic surroundings.

FREDERICK HUBER.

The subject of this sketch, whose name is well known throughout Elkhart township, Noble county, belongs to that class of Indiana's prominent pioneers whose presence has proved so beneficial in the development of her agricultural resources and whose labors will ever stand as a monument to glorify and perpetuate their achievements in turning the dense forests and dismal swamps into fertile fields from which has been produced the wealth which has made Indiana great among the sister commonwealths of the nation. Born in Pennsylvania, near the city of Pittsburg, on March 3, 1833, he was but three years old when his parents moved to Allen county, Ohio, and settled on a farm near Lima. Here young Frederick obtained his early education and grew to manhood, and afterward married, February 24, 1857, Miss Mary Stump, who was born in Seneca county, Ohio, July 23, 1838.

Frederick Huber remained in Allen county, Ohio, until the spring of 1859, when he came to Noble county, Ind., with his wife and one child, and purchased one hundred and twenty acres of wild land in Elkhart township. Here he settled down to the task of making a home for himself and young family. Nearly all the work of clearing off the heavy timber and preparing the rich soil for cultivation was performed by Mr. Huber, and its present excellent and highly cultivated fields, the fine residence and out-buildings are an evidence of what has been accomplished through his well-directed efforts and careful attention to the details necessary to produce good results in any undertaking, but most essentially in the vocation of agriculture. Mr. Huber has added to his original purchase until his farm now contains two hundred and five acres, and the passerby can not fail to have his attention drawn to those evidences of thrift which greet the eye.

Mr. and Mrs. Huber's home has been blessed with seven children, namely: Joseph R., who died in his eighteenth year; Henry, who died March 18, 1890, in his thirty-first year; Jesse, who died when nearly twenty-one years of age; Franklin, who died February 19, 1895, when about thirty-two years of age; Samuel, who died January 12, 1894, at the age of twenty-two years; Sarah Ann is the wife of Walter Swihart; Calvin is a farmer in Elkhart township, where he was born June 6, 1866, and was married to Clara E. Swihart, October 2, 1887, she being a native of Noble township, born December 8, 1865, and they are the parents of two children, George Frederick and Mary E. The father of Mrs. Calvin was George T. Swihart and the mother was a Miss Elizabeth Butterbaugh, natives of Ohio, who came to Wabash county, Ind., and subsequently moved to Noble county, prior to the Civil war. The mother died in Elkhart county, October 12, 1896, in her sixtieth year. They were the parents of twelve children, of whom Mrs. Calvin Huber is the sixth in order of birth.

In addition to the loss of five sons, Frederick Huber has been called upon to mourn the loss of his estimable wife, who died in Elkhart township, November 22, 1881. The father of Frederick Huber was Jacob Huber, a native of Germany, and the mother was Barbara Myers, also a native of Germany. They emigrated from Germany in 1833. Both died in Allen county, Ohio, the father at the age of fifty-six years and the mother at seventy-seven. They were the parents of eight children, Frederick, the subject, being the seventh in order of birth.

Mr. Huber has remained single since the death of his wife, and now in his declining years can look back upon a well-spent life, surrounded by his children and grandchildren, in whose future he feels that keen interest which one ever feels in the development of those lives which will carry to future ages the name he has so honorably borne and which is held by a numerous circle of friends as the synonym of those virtues which mark the real man and worthy citizen.

JOHN LATIMER,

A well-to-do farmer of Noble county, Ind., is a whole-souled, genial gentleman who has won the friendship of all with whom he has been associated. He was born in Mifflin township, Ashland county, Ohio, December 4, 1844, and is a son of William and Sarah N. Latimer. His father was a native of Delaware and his mother of Virginia. The mother died in Ashland county, Ohio, at the age of sixty-four years, but the venerable father is yet living at an advanced age. Their family consisted of nine children.

John Latimer was reared and educated in Ashland county, where he remained until his twenty-eighth year, when he was married and moved to Bates county, Mo., reaching there in the latter part of 1872. This state did not meet his expectations and after a residence there of ten months he once more set his face eastward, locating in Churubusco, Whitley county, Ind. Here, thinking to better his fortunes, he engaged in the livery business for about two years and also did considerable teaming, but the surroundings and associations were very much to his dislike and he disposed of his business and left the county to seek a more congenial location. Reaching Noble county, the richness and fertility of the soil appealed to his judgment and he stopped in Green township for six years, carrying on the pursuits of husbandry. He then settled in Noble township, where he owns one hundred and thirty-five acres and where his successful farming operations have gained him the name of being a thoroughly capable man and one who understands his business to the minutest particular.

On December 17, 1872, in Ashland county, Ohio, was solemnized the marriage of John Latimer and Miss Martha Ward, to whom a family of three children have been born, viz: Minnie E., wife of Oliver Eger; William W.; and Sarah J. Mrs. Latimer is an amiable lady, whose enthusiasm in whatever cause she espouses is the signal of success. She was born in Richland county, Ohio, October 23, 1853, and is one of five children born to Jacob and Hannah (Copeland) Ward. Her father was from Pennsylvania, and her mother from that state also. They both died in Richland county, aged sixty-five and sixty-six years respectively.

NEWTON RARICK.

Among the names which are indelibly written on the pages of Noble county's history none occupy a more conspicuous place than that of Newton Rarick, who has been closely identified with the agricultural interests of Indiana since the year 1861, when he came here as a young man and cast in his lot with that of the enterprising citizens who have contributed so nobly to the upbuilding and growth of Noble county. Mr. Rarick is a native of Ohio, having been ushered into existence in Darke county, about sixty-five years ago.

Jacob Rarick, father of Newton, was a native of Pennsylvania and born in 1802. When about ten years old he became a resi-

In Daniel Milliken's reminiscences he refers to Jacob Shull, Louis Roberts and James Woods as the survivors of pioneer days, and to the following named old settlers: James Van Meter, James Lippincott, Samuel Lippincott, David Freet, William B. Rockhill, Thomas Rockhill, Alexander Stewart, Stephen Cook and Jefferson Vertner. These were old settlers near Rockport and Beaver Dam. In Richland Township, an early schoolhouse was Hilty's, and the first teacher, William Redding. The first church, Methodist Episcopal, at Rockport. The first horse mill at Rockport, owned by Isaac Parker.

Lewis Jennings, who came with his parents to Allen County in 1836 and settled in Richland in 1852, states that the neighbors within two miles at that time were Tobias Woods, Benjamin Meek, John Shina-berry, John Dickerson, Clements Smeltz, Joseph Furshee, John Murray, and Richard Hall. The first school-house in his district was built in 1852; the first church was at Bluffton.

The following record of land buyers in the northern tier of sections, originally belonging to Putnam County, and of those who purchased lands in Township 2 south, Range 8 east, establishes the history of settle-ment. Again the tax roll of 1834, given in the pioneer chapter covers almost all the names entitled to appear among the pioneers of the orig-inal township.

Charles and Patricia Franks Family

Noble graduate and received his degree from IPFW in 1973. Their children, both born in Fort Wayne, are Laura Beth, born August 7, 1978, and Sarah Anne, born December 31, 1981.

Marsha Anne Franks, born September 29, 1954, is a speech therapist, receiving her degree from Indiana State University in 1976. On Sept. 1, 1984, she married Arlen Richard Struck, son of Marvin and Leona (Maas) Struck of Spicer, Minn.

Claire Denise Franks, born June 11, 1958, a graduate of Randolph-Macon Women's College in 1980, is employed in advertising in New York City.

Laraine Kathleen Franks, born January 15, 1965, is attending Indiana State University, while Donna Beth Franks, born September 13, 1966, plans to attend Hanover College in September, 1985.

FRANK WESLEY FRANKS

Frank Wesley Franks, who died November 24, 1969, at the age of 84, lived most of his life in Elkhart Township, Noble County. He was born February 21, 1885, son of Thomas Jefferson Franks and Harriet Rebecca Neuffer, at Altamont, Labette County, Kansas, where the family lived for a short period of time. By 1887, the family had returned to Noble County, Indiana.

As a young man Frank worked at various jobs which included railroad work, log hauling, driving the school "hack" and farming which became his lifelong occupation. He was a noted dairy farmer and was a pioneer Guernsey breeder in Noble County.

On October 15, 1907, he married Veda Fay Lindsey. She was also born in Kansas, at Kensington, May 5, 1888, daughter of William Jefferson Lindsey and Mary Ann Nichols. Shortly thereafter the family returned to Indiana, locating in Orange Township, Noble Co.

After her graduation from Wawaka High School in 1905, Veda taught school until her marriage. In addition to homemaking, she found time to keep a beautiful flower garden and was active in the Noble County Home Demonstration Club and Women's Society of the Wawaka Methodist Church. She died December 16, 1958, after an extended illness.

Frank and Veda Franks had seven children who are as follows: Thora Mary (Mrs. A. Elwood Cotner), deceased; Mildred Harriet (Mrs. Delbert Gard) who lives at North Webster, IN; Coy Helena (Mrs. Lester Keefer), Wawaka, IN; Jane Elizabeth (Mrs. Stephen Clark), Rome City, IN; William Thomas, who married Martha Rose Hibshman, Wawaka, IN; Mary Arlene (Mrs. Howard Berkes), Wawaka, IN; and Ann Catherine (Mrs. Donald Connors), South Bend, IN.

They had 18 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren.

On December 4, 1966, Frank Franks married Vesta (Stuckman) Harlan. Vesta had been the proprietor of "Uncle Sam's Store" in Merriam, Indiana, for several years prior to their marriage. She proved to be an excellent mother and grandmother to her new family and hosted many wonderful family get-togethers. Vesta now resides at Route One, Avilla, in Green Township, Noble County.

THOMAS JEFFERSON FRANKS

Thomas Jefferson (T.J.) Franks was born September 1, 1850, in Wayne County, Ohio, the third child of Reason B. and Elizabeth Ebey Franks. He moved to Noble County, Indiana, with his parents sometime after 1864 and before 1870. On August 10, 1872, he married Harriett Rebecca Neuffer, daughter of Samuel S. and Mary Eshleman Neuffer. Hattie, as she was called, was born January 22, 1855.

Nine children were born to this union. All of them were born in Noble County, Indiana, except Frank Wesley who was born at Altamont, Labette County, Kansas. The Franks family had gone to Kansas to farm for a short period of time but by 1887 had returned to Noble County. The children in order of birth are: Samuel Wilson Franks, born November 5, 1872; Charles A. Franks, born January 30, 1874; Ocie B. Franks Murry McCloskey, born August 22, 1875; Clyde R. Franks, born October 3, 1877; John M. Franks, born July 12, 1879; Lorin B. Franks, born March 3, 1881; Mary May Franks Frick, born December 25, 1882; Frank Wesley Franks, born February 21, 1885; Thomas Lee Franks, born February 28, 1887.

After the birth of Frank, T.J. and Hattie had been advised by doctors that it would be best if they had no more children. However, Lee came along and Hattie died June 7, 1887, less than six months after his birth. T.J. was left with several small children to care for.

On September 15, 1887, Thomas Jefferson Franks married Sarah Zimmer Huber, a widow with one daughter. On January 5, 1889, a daughter, Clara, was born to this marriage. Clara married Edward Piggott.

Descendants of T.J. Franks now number in the hundreds with many still living in Noble County. The T.J. Franks Reunion is held the 4th Sunday of June each year, usually near Wawaka, Indiana.

WILLIAM THOMAS FRANKS FAMILY

William Thomas Franks was born March 28, 1921, near Wawaka, Indiana, the son of Frank W. and Veda Fay Lindsey Franks. Tom graduated from Wawaka High School and attended Purdue University for two years before enlisting in the U.S. Army, where he served 29 months, 20 of which were in Europe. Tom received four battle stars, two purple hearts, and the bronze star. After discharge, he joined his father in farming and on December 10, 1945, took the job of substitute rural mail carrier for the Wawaka Post Office. In June 1951 he was appointed regular rural mail carrier of Wawaka and held that position until retirement on September 3, 1982.

On June 1, 1946, he married Martha Rose Hibschman, who was born May 11, 1923, the daughter of Clee and Virgie Hibschman from Syracuse, Indiana. She was a graduate of International Business College.

They lived on Tom's father's farm one mile west of Wawaka. In December 1950 Tom and Martha purchased the old Rink farm $\frac{3}{4}$ mile south of Wawaka, where they still reside. They had one daughter and 3 sons: Karen Lee, Thomas J., Frank Edward, and William Clee. All were members of the Wawaka United Methodist Church.

Thomas J. Franks was born April 15, 1947, and graduated from Wawaka High School and Purdue University. In the spring of 1972, T.J. returned to the family farm and formed a partnership with his father. They expanded their registered Guernsey herd and updated the dairy facility. T.J. now owns 127 registered Guernseys and Holsteins and leases the family farm from Tom and Martha. On March 19, 1977, T.J. married Sharon Kay Johnson. She was born October 21, 1952, the daughter of Harold and Beulah Johnson of LaGrange, Indiana. Sharon is a devoted mother and housewife, and she helps with the dairy operation. A daughter, Stephanie Kay, was born March 24, 1979, and a son, Jonathon Thomas, was born June 29, 1982.

Karen Lee Franks was born September 25, 1948 and graduated from Wawaka High School and Purdue University, majoring in home economics. Karen was Indiana Future Homemakers President in 1969. She was employed as a home economist for Indiana and Michigan Electric Co. and later taught school in Adams and Allen Counties. On June 4, 1972, Karen married Vincent John Scalabrino. He was born October 21, 1946, the son of James and Ida Scalabrino of Grand Rapids, Michigan. They have three sons: Vincent James, born May 24, 1978; Nicholas Frank, born June 13, 1980; and Stephan Thomas, born July 1, 1982. Vince graduated from Western Michigan College and works for Kay-Ray, Chicago, Illinois. The Scalabrinis reside in Palatine, Illinois, and are interested in antique Model A Ford automobiles.

Thomas and Sarah Franks and Harriett Rebecca Franks

Frank Edward Franks was born January 20, 1951, and graduated from West Noble High School and Indiana University, with a business degree in 1973. Frank has been a salesman for Burroughs Corporation and has several other business interests. He married Jacqueline Ann Dormans on December 28, 1973. She was born February 28, 1952, the daughter of Paul and Virginia Dormans of Fort Wayne, Indiana. Jackie is a graduate of Indiana University in nursing. They reside near Westfield, Indiana.

William Clee Franks was born June 5, 1953, and graduated from West Noble High School and Purdue University. On September 2, 1972, Clee married Cheryl Lee Long. She was born August 1, 1954, the daughter of Joe and Allen Long of Larwill, Indiana. A son Christopher Clee was born April 29, 1976, and a daughter Caryn Lee was born on July 3, 1980. Clee joined his brother T.J. in farming in November 1977. Health problems forced him to leave the farm, and he is employed by Challenge Door, Ligonier, Indiana. Cheryl is a talented musician, teaching piano and voice. She also writes jingles for radio and television commercials. They reside south of Wawaka near the family farm.

D. MALCOLM FRAZE

D. Malcolm Frazee was born in Randolph County, Indiana, January 27, 1895, the son of Samuel W. Frazee and Viola Williamson. Malcolm had five brothers, James, Hugh, Darius, Charles, Donald (who died in infancy) and a sister Wynona. The family moved to Kendallville in the middle 1900's where Malcolm graduated from Kendallville High School. He served in World War I and upon his return in 1918 he was associated with the Gawthrop Inn on North Main Street. In the middle 1920's he joined Campbell & Fetter Bank and remained there until his retirement in 1960. He was well known in musical circles and directed the Presbyterian Church choir for many years.

Metha Mary Mertz was born in DeKalb County, Indiana, on August 5, 1895, one of eight children, to Benjamin Mertz and Johanna Auman. Johanna was a sister of former mayor William C. Auman. Metha had seven older brothers, John, Otto, Henry, Edward, Walter, Theodore and Daniel who resided in the DeKalb and Allen county areas. Metha and her mother moved to Kendallville in the middle 1900's. After her graduation from Kendallville High School, she was employed by Mr. Merica who owned the Kendallville News Sun and later worked for Mr. R.A. Otis who managed the Building & Loan Savings and the Home Telephone Company. In the years between 1940 and 1960 she was catalog sales manager for Sears & Roebuck.

Malcolm and Metha were married November 23, 1917, in a double wedding ceremony at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, the other couple being Glen Meyers and Esther Mertz (Esther and Metha were also double cousins). Malcolm and Metha had two children, Mary Ellen born in 1919 and James Malcolm born in 1924. Malcolm died in 1962 and Metha died in 1983.

Mary Ellen Frazee recently retired from the Medical Protective Company in Fort Wayne and now resides in Kendallville. James M. Frazee served in World War II and upon his return married Shirley L. Miller and is employed by Kraft Foods. They have two children, Cynthia A. who married William VanWinkle. They have two children Troy and Heidi, and reside in Corpus Christi, Texas. A son, Stanley J., married Ann Fox of Rome City and they live in Wuerzburg, Germany, where they both teach in the American High School.

JOHN AND AMANDA FREDERICK

John Frederick was born in Columbiana County, Ohio, November 15, 1827. He was married to Amanda Favinger March 15, 1849. They had eight children.

He moved to Noble County on a farm near Avilla in the spring of 1852 and in the fall of the same year they moved to the farm in Jefferson Twp. on which they resided until the death of his wife September 18, 1903. After that time he made his home with his children.

He united with the Methodist Church when a boy, but when he moved to Noble County, he joined the Rehoboth Lutheran Church where he remained a member until his death.

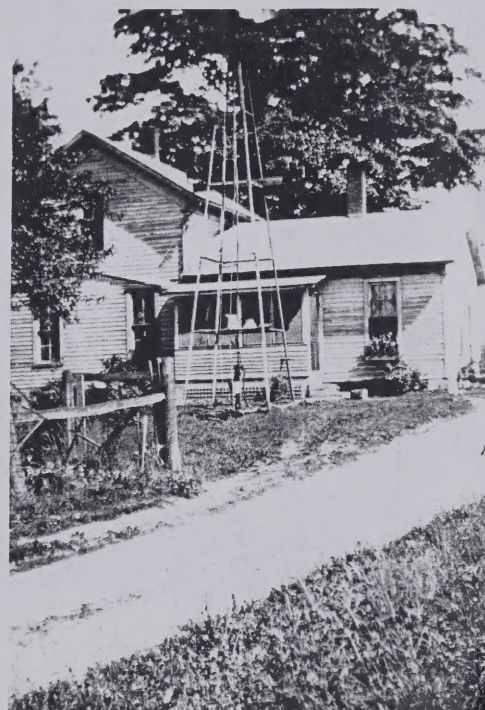

Amanda Favinger was born near Philadelphia, Pa. September 17, 1830. In early life she became a Christian and united with the Lutheran Church in Ohio before joining the Rehoboth Lutheran Church in Noble County, being a charter member.

She died in her home in Jefferson Twp. September 18, 1903, aged 73 years, and one day. John Frederick died May 13, 1911, aged 83 years, 5 months and 26 days. They are buried at Rehoboth Cemetery.

Their children were Mrs. Mahala Easterday, Toledo, Mrs. Henry Shaffer, Albion, Oliver Frederick, Alden, Kansas, Mrs. Charles Colson, Shickley, Nebraska, and Mrs. William (Lydia) Smith, the mother of Berniece (Smith) Friskney, a longtime Noble County resident.

WILLIAM FREDERICK FAMILY

William Frederick (1847-1920) and wife, Eudora (Marshall) (1852-1911), settled on 53 acres one-half mile west of Kendallville, on Road 6. His son, Arthur Frederick (1887-1949) married Celia Wible (1894-1970), daughter of William S. Wible and Gertrude Covell. In 1926, they purchased the farm and this home (adding more acreage later) and raised their five children here.

Home of William Frederick

Arthur's first daughter is Arlene June Frederick, born April 14, 1917. She married William Carlyle Munk on May 3, 1944, and they had two daughters, Anna Mae Munk, born August 2, 1946 and living at home; and Carla Jo Munk, born May 8, 1948. Carla married Joseph Pomager from Philadelphia in 1973, and they have two sons, Joe, born 1975 and Christopher, born 1978. They reside in Huntsville, Alabama. Carlyle Munk passed away on April 16, 1985.

Maxine Virginia Frederick was born May 13, 1919. She married James D. Carlisle on October 19, 1940 (of Bruceville, Indiana), and they have three children: Karen Carlisle, born March 24, 1941, who married Lauren Hanes and has two children, James in 1967 and

Dear Florian & Carolyn,

I found these 2 pictures ~~in~~ some of my things recently. I had them enlarged for my siblings and made a copy for you, too. The back of the lady's picture says, "Leona Huber." The family picture says "Alvin Cripe family before Jesse was born." I think they are great pictures & supposed that you might enjoy them also.

God bless,
Grace Cripe

Dear Florian,

It was good to hear from you. We hope you and Carolyn are enjoying retirement.

The Huber side of our family is an interesting one. The enclosed ancestry page will answer some of your questions.

We are now in a small apartment and much of our stuff is in storage. When I get to storage (and if I can find anything) we'll send you some more stuff. I found a computer disk with some Huber stuff on it and printed it out for you. It was in an old format and lost a little of it's appearance in the re-formatting, but I can't blame the bad spelling on that. I'm a lousy typist.

A year or two ago I ran onto a thing about land records in Ohio. As a result, I'm including copies of purchase records for land bought by Jacob Frederick Huber in 1837.

Good luck on your searches.

picnic. In 1894, also, three bells were donated by Father Hoeffel, and also, for recasting, two others. These bells bear the names of the three pastors—Bredeick, Westerholt and Hoeffel.

Any words of commendation touching the herculean task performed by Rev. A. I. Hoeffel would be here superfluous, weak and inadequate, and it may be in better taste to abstain from any attempt at laudation and let his great and pious deeds speak for themselves rather than attempt to "paint the lily."

HENRY HUBER, one of the highly respected citizens of Bluffton, and a pioneer of Allen county, springs from the best of German stock. Jacob Frederick Huber, his father, was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, and was the only child of his father, who died when the son was quite small. He married in Germany, Barbara Elizabeth Meyers, a daughter of Benjamin Meyers, of Prussia, and to this marriage there were born six children that lived to be grown men and women, as follows: Charles, William, Jacob, Caroline, Frederick, and Henry. By trade Mr. Huber was a blacksmith and came to the United States in April, 1832, embarking at Amsterdam, in a sailing vessel, and landing in New York, being over 100 days on the voyage, and contrary winds prevailing. In order to reach Amsterdam his family rode down the river Rhine on a flat-boat. Mr. Huber settled on a farm of 100 acres in Butler county, Pa., improved this farm and lived thereon until 1835, when he removed to Richland township, Allen county, Ohio, where he settled on 120 acres in the woods. For this land he paid $1.25 per acre. By continued and persistent hard labor he at length succeeded in clearing up this farm, aided by the labor of his sons. He was always in poor health after coming to this country, because of having contracted consumption in Germany by hooping wine-casks in the deep wine-cellars of the fatherland, so that in reality he did but little manual labor after coming to the United States. He died in Richland township in 1845, when he was about forty-eight years old. He was as long as he lived a straightforward, honorable citizen, and possessed to a remarkable degree the confidence and esteem of his fellow-men. He and his wife were both members of the Lutheran church.

Henry Huber, son of the above, was born November 3, 1838, on his father's farm in Richland township, and having but the poorest kind of schools to attend, his education was necessarily limited, and for a time such schools as did exist were kept in some ones's dwelling-house, and at other times in a blacksmith-shop. He was brought up a farmer, and on November 12, 1867, when he was twenty-nine years of age, married Sarah Shaw, who died fourteen years after the marriage, leaving no children. He was married, the second time, to Mrs. Adelia Siler, née Harris, widow of Seymour B. Siler, and daughter of Perry W. and Mary A. (Pound) Harris. Perry W. Harris was born in Licking county, Ohio, and was one of the pioneers of Blanchard township, Putnam county, Ohio. He was the father of Isaac, George, Joseph, Reese, Adrain, Emily and Isabel Harris. He is a member of the Christian Union church, and in politics he is a democrat, as such serving as township trustee for some time. He is now seventy-three years of age, and is a man of substantial property, owning 1,200 acres of land in Putnam county. Mrs. Huber had two brothers who were lawyers; Burr moved to Oregom where he died, and where he was very successful in his profession, and Robert, who is practicing law with success in Findlay, Ohio. John was teaching school before he died. All were intelligent and good citizens, striving to do what good they could in the world.

To this second marriage of Mr. Huber there were born three children, as follows: Luvaldia, who died at the age of four years and four months; Henry P. and Reese H. Mrs. Huber had one child by her first husband, named Mary Siler. Mrs. Huber died August 25, 1891, at the age of forty-three years. On September 20, 1894, Mr. Huber married his third wife, Minerva Morris, born in Hancock county, Ohio, and a daughter of Mahlon and Elizabeth (Eaton) Morris, the former of whom was of an old colonial Virginia family, and of Welsh ancestry. He was born in Loudoun county, Va., and was a son of Robert and Nancy (Tribby) Morris, the former of whom was a pioneer of Columbiana county, Ohio, cleared up a farm in that county, and there died.

Mahlon Morris was reared a farmer in Columbiana county, and removed thence to Hancock county, Ohio, in 1833, settling on wild land in Portage township. This he cleared and converted into a good farm. In 1847 he was elected treasurer of Hancock county, served two years, and was then re-elected, but died August 5, 1849. He had been justice of the peace in his township for fifteen years before his death, and was a well known and highly respected citizen to the last. To him and his wife there were born nine children, as follows: Nancy, Catherine, Elvira, John E., Burr, Robert, Sarah A., Minerva and Mary J. Mrs. Morris was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and being a woman of many virtues was highly respected by all who knew her. She died at the age of sixty-seven years. The family and relatives of Mr. Morris are among the best citizens in the county.

Henry Huber, the subject of this sketch, has always been an industrious and honored citizen. In the best and truest sense of the term he is a self-made man, what property he has now in his possession having been acquired through his own exertions. In 1874 he erected a tasteful and comfortable two-story brick residence, and has a most pleasant and happy home. He is one of the most successful farmers in his township, and has reared a most excellent family.

EVAN HUMPHREYS, one of the pioneers of Allen county, Ohio, a venerable man and a substantial farmer, was born in Wales. He is a son of Morris and Mary (Roberts) Humphreys, the former of whom was a weaver by trade, and was the father of three children, viz: Evan, Hannah and Annie. Morris Humphreys lived in Montgomeryshire, Wales, and died there before his son, Evan, can remember.

Evan Humphreys was born in Montgomeryshire, Wales, from which country many excellent citizens have come to Allen county, Ohio. The date of his birth was October 18, 1819. He was well educated in his native country, and there became a farmer. He married Elizabeth Pugh, who was born December 12, 1817, in the same county with himself. To them were born two children, who lived to mature age, viz: Elizabeth, and Evan P., both of whom were born in the United States. Mr. Humphreys and his wife came to America on the same ship with Richard Breese, namely, the ship William Penn, sailing from Liverpool, England, and being seven weeks on the voyage, landing in Philadelphia.

Upon arriving in this country Mr. Evans first went to Paddy's Run, Butler county, Ohio; for some time he worked at farm labor, remaining about three years. At the end of this time he removed to Sugar Creek township, Allen county, where he rented a piece of land near Gomer. In April, of 1850, Mr. Humphreys bought eighty acres of timbered land,
